BIRDS' EYE VIEW OF LAWRENCE FROM TOWER HILL.

P R E F A C E .

In presenting this volume to the public the publisher lays no claim to any literary merit. It was not intended to be a history of Lawrence, but as indicated by its title, a "Gazetteer," which lexicographers define as "a book containing names and brief descriptions," giving a short account of all the prominent events which have transpired in this city from its infancy down to Jan. 1, 1894, so far as could be ascertained by six months' work in collecting and compiling the same. Many obstacles were encountered in procuring from strictly authentic and official sources matters which occurred during the first quarter of a century of the city's existence, as no complete files of the three weekly newspapers published here prior to 1865 are available; the early records of some of the corporations, churches, lodges and departments have been lost, destroyed or disappeared by some means not accounted for. The frequent changes in the management of the large corporations, prevents the present officials from furnishing additional facts than those which they have so willingly supplied, and the desired information had often to be obtained from other sources at no small amount of time and expense. To the secretaries of church societies, lodges and other organizations, the sincere thanks of the publisher is due for their prompt and valuable assistance.

The following authorities and publications have been consulted and aided materially in furnishing interesting matter which this work contains: Wadsworth's Quarter-Centennial History of Lawrence, published in 1878; history of "Catholicity in Lawrence," by Miss Katharine A. O'Keeffe, and the chapters devoted to this city in the histories of Essex county, written by ex-Mayors R. H. Tewksbury and John R. Rollins. Many of the older residents have rendered much valuable aid, and the generous patronage of our enterprising advertisers has enabled the publisher to make the price of the book at so low a sum as to have its place in the libraries of most of the households in this city.

The main motive in preparing this work was to preserve to the present and future generations matters that are forgotten or bid fair to become buried in oblivion. Some of the events chronicled may seem trivial to a few people but will be of interest to others, especially the older residents, and it is hoped will assist the labors of some future historian in preparing a semi-centennial history of Lawrence, in 1895.

CORPORATIONS.

THE ESSEX COMPANY.

INCORPORATED March 20, 1845, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The stockholders organized April 16, 1845, by the choice of Abbott Lawrence as president, and Charles S. Storrow, treasurer and general agent.

Excavations for the dam across the Merrimac river were commenced August 1, 1845, and the first stone laid September 19th of the same year. The structure is 1629 feet in length, and the average height of masonry above the bed being 32 feet, it is capable of furnishing mill powers equivalent to 10,000 horse power.

This Company built the north canal which is 5,330 feet long, being 100 feet wide at the inlet and narrowing down to 60 feet at its outlet. Water was let into this canal for the first time November 29, 1847, and December 10 of the same year was utilized as a mill feeder. The first important application of power was February 24, 1848, when water from the canal started the main wheel in the Bay State mills. The turbine wheel in the Essex Company's machine shop was first started Dec. 5, 1848, and that of the Atlantic Cotton mills, May 10, 1849.

The Essex Company also engineered and built for owners or sold to them the Atlantic Cotton mills, Upper Pacific, Pemberton and Duck mills; also the Lawrence Machine Shop, besides constructing the reservoir on Prospect hill, building the Andover bridge over the Merrimack river, the lumber dock on Water street, the south canal, and other important enterprises, which have largely promoted the growth and prosperity of Lawrence.

The capital stock was subsequently increased to $1,500,000 but later reduced to $500,000 by cancelling its shares from funds received from sales of land, mills and water power.

Abbott Lawrence held the office of treasurer until his death in 1855, and J. Wiley Edmunds chosen his successor. Charles S. Storrow has served as treasurer and agent from the first organization to the present time. The cashiers have been George D. Cabot, Hon. John R. Rollins, Henry H. Hall, and Hon. Robert H. Tewksbury, the present incumbent. The chief engineer is Hiram F. Mills.

THE LAWRENCE MACHINE SHOP.

Early in 1846, the Essex Company established a machine shop in the Essex Yard on its own account. The same year it commenced the erection of the stone buildings bounded by Union, Canal and Garden streets, now owned and operated by the Everett Mills corporation. The new company was named the Lawrence Machine Shop, and work commenced on the foundry building July 10, 1846. The capital stock of this corporation was $750,000, in shares of $75 each. The stone buildings were completed in the fall of 1848, and the machinery first set in motion Dec. 5th of that year.

While operated by the Essex Company, Caleb M. Marvel was superintendent, and after its conveyance to the new company, (Lawrence Machine Shop,) Samuel Batchelder became president; J. H. W. Page, treasurer; Gordon McKay, agent, and John C. Hoadley, superintendent,—the latter becoming agent in 1854.

The manufacture of locomotives was a specialty in this shop, although anything in iron work was done there. Several hundred skilled machinists were employed in building locomotives, which were considered to be equal to those of other manufacture. The Hoadley portable engines were first made in these shops; also the first steam fire engine, and the McKay sewing machines. The business depression of 1857 proved fatal to this heretofore prosperous corporation, causing the shops to be shut down for a period of two years, when the land and buildings were sold for a nominal sum to the Everett mills corporation. The machinery was removed and sold, while the buildings were reconstructed internally and fitted up with cloth-producing machinery.

BAY STATE MILLS.

These structures were laid out April 11, 1846, and building actually commenced on the foundations June 7, 1846. The water wheel of the river mill was first set in motion Feb. 24, 1848. The buildings comprised 4 mills and a dye house, the third of the three central mills not being finished until 1850. Woollen goods, then new in American manufacture were first produced, and in 1848 all-wool plaid shawls, known as the "Bay State Shawls," were successfully woven, 315,000 of which were produced in 1850. The manufacture of felt carpets was attempted, but with unsatisfactory results. The other products of these mills prior to 1857 were fine woollen plaids and cassimeres.

This corporation failed during the period of the financial panic of 1857 and two years later the buildings, machinery and dwelling houses were sold to the Washington Mills corporation, formed largely of creditors of the Bay State mills.

Samuel Lawrence was treasurer and general agent of the corporation during its existence. The first agent was M. D. Ross, who was succeeded by Samuel Webber. Later Capt. Oliver H. Perry filled the position of general manager from 1850 to 1857, his successor being Capt. Gustavus V. Fox, who was afterwards assistant secretary of the navy. Alfred P. Clark held the position of paymaster during the entire period of the corporation's existence.

WASHINGTON MILLS.

This company was granted its charter by the legislature in 1858, and organized with a capital of $1,650,000, Joseph S. Fay being treasurer and agent. The mill property was that formerly belonging to the Bay State mills. Operations were commenced by the new corporation in 1859, part of the machinery having been supplanted by that used in the manufacture of cotton and worsted goods. The mill buildings used by the Bay State have been demolished or burned and a large new six-story building erected on the site. The products are fancy cassimeres for men's wear, twilled blue flannel coatings, and opera flannels. The corporation was re-organized in 1886 with a cash capital of $2,000,000, and the manufacture of worsted yarns, men's wear, cloakings, dress goods, and overcoatings commenced, employing 3000 operatives in September, 1893.

The treasurers have been Joseph S. Fay, Joshua Stetson, Henry F. Coe and Frederick Ayer. Gustavus V. Fox, Edward D. Thayer, William H. Salisbury, Thomas Sampson, F. H. Jealous and E. P. Chapin have been the local agents, and William M. Wood its present manager. The selling agent is S. J. Weaver, 74 and 76 Worth street, New York city.

LAWRENCE DUCK COMPANY.

This mill was incorporated in 1852 and commenced operations the following year. The original owners were Albert Fearing, Isaac Thatcher and David Whiton. Its capital stock is $300,000, and the products are sail duck, duck for rubber belting and hose, paper makers' cotton felt, tent, duck and sail twine. Isaac Hayden was the first agent, and Willard B. Hayden, paymaster. The present officers are Aaron Hobart, treasurer; William A. Barrell, agent; F. G. Davis, Boston, and S. M. Marshall, & Co., Chicago, selling agents.

ATLANTIC COTTON MILLS.

This extensive and flourishing corporation was organized Feb. 3, 1846, with an authorized capital of $1,500,000. The mill was constructed in three divisions, ground having been broken for No. 1 mill, June 9, 1846, in which the wheels were started up for the first time, May 10, 1849, and the first cloth woven the same month. No. 2 mill was started up Sept. 4, 1849, and ground broken for the No. 3, or central mill, Feb. 15, 1850. The machinery for the latter building was made at the Lawrence Machine Shop. The first cotton for any of the Lawrence mills was received Jan. 12, 1849, by the Atlantic corporation and the first cloth woven the following May. All the buildings, water-ways and wheel-pits were constructed by the Essex Company.

The corporation has suffered from financial causes previous to 1876, when the capital stock was reduced from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000, the stockholders surrendering five shares of old stock for one of the new, virtually reducing the old stock to $300,000, but adding $700,000 in cash to the new capital of $1,000,000. This action resulted in a new era of prosperity which has continued since that time.

Abbott Lawrence was the first president of the company. The treasurers have been Charles S. Storrow, William Gray, William Gray, Jr., and William Hooper, the present incumbent. Gen. Henry K. Oliver served as agent until 1859, his successors being Joseph P. Battles and W. F. Sherman.

PEMBERTON COMPANY.

What was formerly known as the Pemberton Mills was incorporated in 1853, and two years later operations were commenced in the manufacture of varied assortment of staple cotton goods in the six-story mill which had been erected. Almost from the start the mill was operated at a loss owing to the depressed condition of the market, and was obliged to suspend operations from 1857 to 1858. In February, 1859, David Nevins and George Howe of Boston purchased the plant and machinery, boarding houses and stock for $325,000, the name of the new firm being changed to the "Pemberton Manufacturing Company," and continued as such until Jan. 10, 1860, when the mill fell at ten minutes before five o'clock in the afternoon, burying 600 persons in the ruins, of whom 89 were burned to death or killed, 17 died from injuries, 43 others severely injured, and 2 disabled for life.

The same year the mill was rebuilt by David Nevins, George Blackburn and Eben Sutton, the controlling owners, and has since been known as the "Pemberton Company," the first president being Mr. Nevins. Henry S. Shaw, 82 Chauncy street, Boston is treasurer, and Fred E. Clarke, agent. The capital stock is $450,000, and the mill operates 27,000 spindles, 870 looms and employs about 550 females and 200 males.

PACIFIC MILLS.

This large, prosperous and enterprising corporation ranks among the foremost of manufacturing concerns in the world, which by sagacious management, coupled with a spirit of enterprise on the part of its officials, has achieved that success of which but a few other corporations of a similar magnitude can boast. The company was incorporated in 1853, but previous to that time (May 24, 1852) grounds were broken for the foundation of the upper mill by the Essex Company which erected the main mill. The first foundation stone was laid June 1, 1852, at the south-east corner of the main mill structure.

When the mills were started up in 1855, it was the intention of the company to confine its productions to ladies' dress goods from either wool or cotton wholly, or combined, and machinery adapted to that purpose was procured, including the needed appliances for a print works and dye house.

The expense of such an undertaking necessitated an increase in the capital stock, which was raised to $2,500,000. The corporation enjoyed a short era of prosperity until the panic in 1857. Meanwhile the president, Abbott Lawrence, and the treasurer, Jeremiah S. Young, had died, and with these misfortunes, coupled with the panic, the stock of this corporation, the par value of which was $1,000 a share, was sold as low as $75 during those dark days, but since then have sold for upwards $2800 each in open market.

George H. Kuhn succeeded Mr. Young as treasurer, but his term of service was brief, and was succeeded by J. Wiley Edmunds, who served 22 years as treasurer, until his death in 1877. Much of the prosperity of the Pacific mills is largely due to the foresight and shrewdness of its selling agents, James L. Little & Co., and its late treasurer, Mr. Edmunds. During the war from 1861 to 1864 the Pacific mills enjoyed a remarkable era of prosperity, when the machinery in the mills in other manufacturing places were idle, and gradually increased to such an extent that in 1877 there were 65,000,000 yards of cloth produced by these mills.

In 1864 the Central Pacific mill was built, and four years later the Lower mill was erected and started up. The mills have 180,000 cotton and worsted spindles, and 6900 looms, and employ 2500 males and 3100 females when in full operation. It requires the fleeces of 650,000 sheep to furnish a week's supply of wool, and $400,000 worth of dyestuffs are used annually.

William C. Chapin was made superintendent of the print works July 10, 1853, and two years later appointed local agent and manager, but resigned in 1881, and was succeeded by John Fallon, then superintendent of the print works. The present agent is Walter E. Parker, who has filled that position since 1818. The treasurer is Henry Saltonstall, and Lawrence & Co., selling agents. The goods produced are calicos, lawns, shirtings, delaines, armures, alpacas, coburgs, serges and other varieties of worsted goods.

ARLINGTON MILLS.

In 1857, Abial Stevens developed the banks of the Spicket river so as to form a water power by building a dam west of Broadway and constructing a dike north to Ingalls' hat factory in Methuen, the latter being rebuilt in 1867. The old wooden building used by Mr. Stevens as a piano case manufactory was sold by him, and later used as a hat factory, and at a more recent period by a flax-cotton manufacturing company in making rugs and carpets. These were followed by the Berkeley mills, and later by a batting mill which lost heavily by a fire.

The Arlington mills were incorporated in 1865. In October, 1866, the wood mill building and machinery were totally destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt of wood in 1867 when the capital stock was increased from $200,000 to $240,000. A re-organization was effected in 1869, and the name changed from the "Arlington Woollen Mills" to the "Arlington Mills." The capital was further increased in July, 1876, to $320,000 and later to $500,000.

Since the wooden mill has been replaced by a substantial brick structure another brick mill fronting on Broadway and Chalmers street has been built, also a two-story brick building south of the Spicket river, used for weaving. In 1885 a cotton mill was built on Ingalls street, Methuen. The company was the first to successfully manufacture black alpaccas, mohairs and brilliantines in the United States. The corporation employs over 2500 persons.

The first agent was Jno. Craven, who was succeeded by Robert Redford. The goods which are now made in these mills are ladies' worsted and cotton dress goods, fine worsted and cotton yarns and harness twine. The selling agents are Harding, Marshall & Co., of Boston.

EVERETT MILLS.

This company was incorporated in 1860. It had previously purchased the Lawrence Machine Shop property, having fifteen acres of land within its enclosure. It was formed under the auspices of Samuel Batchelder, with a capital of $800,000, and in June, 1860, commenced the manufacture of dress goods, gingham, and a general variety of cotton fabrics, the demand for which has necessitated the addition of three large mill buildings, and the company now has 60,000 spindles, 1400 looms, and employs 600 males and 650 females, and is capable of producing 200,000 yards of cloth per week, the goods manufactured being cottonades, chevots, dress goods, denims, etc.

George C. Richardson & Co., of Boston were the first selling agents; Samuel Batchelder, treasurer, and D. D. Crombie, agent. Mr. Crombie's successors have been John R. Perry, David M. Ayer, Charles D. McDuffie and Fred C. McDuffie. Geor S. Sillsbee is the treasurer.

RUSSELL PAPER COMPANY.

In 1853, A. & A. Norton and the Lawrence Paper Co. purchased mill powers at the foot of the north canal to carry on the business of manufacturing paper. The next year William Russell started a mill on a small scale. Later, Samuel S. and Daniel P. Crocker and Salmon W. Wilder erected mills and carried on business for several years.

In 1864, the Russell Paper Company was organized with Hon. William A. Russell as treasurer, having a capital stock of $200,000. While it makes the manufacture of fine news, cap, manilla and blotting paper a specialty, it controls a patent for converting wood pulp as an important ingredient for paper stock, and besides the mills in this city the Company owns others in New Hampshire, Vermont and other places.

WRIGHT MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

In 1854, Algernon S. Wright, an overseer in the Atlantic Cotton mills with Artemas W. Stearns and Dr. Alfred J. French formed a partnership for, the manufacture of woollen yarn and leased a mill for that purpose. Later the project was abandoned, and at Mr. Stearns' suggestion, the mill was equipped with suitable machinery for making braids. Starting with 50 braid machines, the number has been increased to 900, and 150 persons find employment in producing a large variety of mohair and other braids. The company was incorporated in 1874 with a capital of $60,000, and organized by the choice of Dr. French as president, A. S. Wright, superintendent, and A. W. Stearns, treasurer. The building owned by the company is 250 feet long and four stories high, fronting on Island street. The officers are A. W. Stearns, treasurer; C. Swift, superintendent, and W. L. Warden, clerk.

STANLEY MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

The original buildings owned by this company were built by Gordon McKay for the manufacture of the McKay sewing machines. The Stanley Manufacturing Company was incorporated in March, 1882, with a capital of $100,000. A. P. Tapley was chosen president, and F. F. Stanley, treasurer. Two large new brick buildings have been added to the plant, wherein nearly 200 men are employed in the manufacture of McKay sewing machines, the McKay and Bigelow heeling machines, the McKay and Copeland lasting machines, and a general line of shoe machinery. M. V. B. Paige is the resident agent, and Charles E. Hardy, paymaster.

LAWRENCE WOOLLEN COMPANY.

Capt. Oliver H. Perry and others in 1863 built a brick mill, three stories high on Union street, extending from Island street to the Merrimack river. The capital stock was $150,000, the shares being $100 each. The mill commenced operations in 1854 in producing woollens, cloakings, suitings, opera flannels, shawls, etc. George P. Upham was treasurer, and Wendall, Fay & Co., selling agents. The mills were purchased by Philips & Kunhardt in 1886, and have since been operated by that firm in the manufacture of woollen goods. The New York office is at 54 and 56 Worth street.

LAWRENCE GAS COMPANY.

This corporation was formed in 1849, with a small capital, but in 1867 it was increased to $400,000. The original plant was built by the Essex Company and the Bay State mills at their joint expense. Gasometers were erected on Marston and Valley streets. The company was incorporated Feb. 14, 1848. James J. Storrow was president for many years, and was succeeded by Hon. George L. Davis.

The company has recently purchased the plants of the Lawrence Electric Lighting Co., and the Edison Electric and Illuminating Co., and by combining these, control practically the lighting system in Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen outside of the larger mills, besides supplying electric power for mills, shops, printing offices, etc. The superintendents have been Henry G. Webber, Richard R. Harriman, Hannibal H. Church and C. J. R. Humphreys, the latter being the present agent. The president is N. H. Emmons of Boston, and Gardiner P. Gates, treasurer.

MONROE FELT AND PAPER COMPANY

This company is located in South Lawrence. It was incorporated in 1881, with a capital of $60,000. They manufacture ingrain wall papers of their own invention which have found an extensive sale; also carpet, manilla and roofing paper—producing about twelve tons daily. Hon. William T. McAlpine is agent, and Henry T. Hall, treasurer.

ARCHIBALD WHEEL COMPANY.

This company was incorporated in 1871, with a capital of $60,000, for the purpose of manufacturing iron-hubbed wheels by the Archibald patent process. A large building on West street was erected and fitted up with the most improved machinery, and the excellence and durability of these wheels soon gained for them a world-wide reputation, which they continue to maintain. Four-fifths of the wheels used on steam fire engines in this country are of that manufacture, and to a considerable extent have been adopted by the United States government. The officers are E. A. Archibald, president and agent; Hezekiah Plummer, treasurer, and E. H. Archibald, superintendent. Wheels for express, truck and farm wagons are also manufactured by this corporation. The capital stock is now $90,000.

J. H. HORNE & SONS COMPANY.

About 1875, John H. Horne commenced the manufacture of paper-mill machinery on a limited scale in a shop near the foot of the north canal, but the excellent qualities of the machines produced by him won the patronage of paper manufacturers to such an extent that in 1885 a large two-story brick building was erected by Mr. Horne on the east side of the Boston & Maine railroad tracks, opposite the South Lawrence passenger station, and which was subsequently enlarged. The firm of J. H. Horne & Sons Co. was incorporated in 1888, with a capital of $125,000. The officers are John H. Horne, president; John E. Horne, treasurer, and B. F. Horne, superintendent.

EMMONS LOOM HARNESS COMPANY.

In 1874, Thomas A. Emmons erected a building on May street in which he began the manufacture of loom harnesses, and which has become one of the leading industries in the western part of the city. When the factory building was erected it was thought to be sufficiently large to accommodate the business for many years, but in 1885 it was found necessary to enlarge it to nearly twice of its original size. Until the suspension of operations in most of the large mills, in the summer of 1893, the firm employed about 125 persons steadily. The company was organized in 1884, G. B. Emmons being president, and T. A. Emmons, treasurer and manager.

OTHER INCORPORATED ENTERPRISES.

THE BACON PAPER COMPANY, incorporated in 1863, was founded by Jerome A. Bacon, and located on Marston street, power being furnished from the north canal. People's General Insurance AGENCY.

JNO. K. NORWOOD & Co., Managers.

Just 27 years ago, Mr. John K. Norwood begun business, and he looks back today upon a quarter century of prosperous years, and years which have built up and made permanent, a lucrative, successful business.

It was in 1867 that Mr. Norwood began business here, opening up in an up-stairs office at the corner of Lawrence and Essex streets. Lawrence had at that time but 27,000 people, and the only four other agents of insurance; E. B. Currier, A. C. Chadwick, D. S. Swan and J. H. Stannard. Of these, only one now remains of the five, besides Mr. Norwood, who sought public patronage in 1867. From the outset, Mr. Norwood's business career met with success. After a few months he removed his office to more pleasant quarters on Pemberton street, where the printing office of S. W. Fellows is now located. Then for 10 years he was at 339 Essex street, and finally in 1872 he moved to his present centrally located office on Lawrence street. Here from a humble beginning, he now acts as agent for 29 fire, life and accident companies. Twenty-five years ago he was agent for but two—the Citizens' Mutual of Boston and the Merrimack Insurance Company of Andover. Mr. Norwood has been a very prudent underwriter, making money for all of his companies, so that the total of Lawrence losses will not exceed 10 per cent. of the total amount of money received in premiums, and has returned to policy holders over $100,000 in dividends.

CHURCH HISTORY OF LAWRENCE.

LAWRENCE STREET CONGREGATIONAL.

The Merrimack Congregational Society (so called) was organized August 1, 1846, but the name was changed to the Lawrence Street Congregational Church the following year, and January 5, 1847, meetings were commenced to be held in a small wooden building, costing about $1,000 at the corner of Haverhill and Lawrence streets. The present church edifice was dedicated October 11, 1848, which has since been remodelled and enlarged.

Pastors—Rev. Lyman Whiting from June 16, 1847, to January 6, 1850; Rev. Henry M. Storrs from January 15, 1852, to March 1, 1855; Rev. Alexander H. Clapp, D. D., and Rev. Charles Beecher from March, 1855, to Aug., 1856; Rev. George B. Wilcox from September, 1856, to 1859; Rev. Caleb E. Fisher from April 13, 1859, to October, 1873; Rev. Joshua Coit from May, 1874, to 1885; Rev. William E. Wolcott from Feb. 25, 1885, to 1894.

CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL.

Organized December 25, 1849, and from that date until August 5, 1854, meetings were held in the City Hall, when the new church at the corner of Essex and Appleton streets was dedicated, and in which services were held until August 12, 1859, when the structure was totally destroyed by fire. In the fall of the same year work was commenced on the stone church fronting the common on Haverhill street which was dedicated June 1, 1860. June 28, 1883, the Central and Eliot Congregational churches were consolidated, and the name changed to Trinity Congregational church.

Pastors—Rev. Lyman Whiting from March to November, 1850; Rev. E. C. Whittlesey from February to October, 1851; Rev. William C. Foster from January 16, 1852, to Sept. 2, 1857; Rev. Daniel Tenney from September, 2, 1857, to September, 1862; Rev. Christopher M. Cordley from 1862 to June 26, 1866; Rev. William E. Park from 1866 to 1875; Rev. George H. Ide from 1875 to 1880; Rev. Thomas M. Miles from May 11, 1881, to June 28, 1883; Rev. John L. R. Trask from Nov. 19, 1884, to July 2, 1888; Rev. William A. Keese from April 11, 1889, to 1894.

SOUTH CONGREGATIONAL.

A Sunday school was organized in 1852 by M. C. Andrews and J. B. Fairfield. Benjamin Coolidge, of the Essex Company, was very much interested in the school and church project, through whose influence the land upon which the church stands, was donated to the society. The church was organized May 13, 1868. The original Sunday school building was on the site of the Swan estate, corner of Andover street and Winthrop avenue, and from 1852 to 1857 sessions were held Sundays only during the summer months. Mainly through the efforts of George A. Fuller, to whom the success of the school is largely due, the school was removed to the Tiger engine hall in the winter of 1857, and six months later changed its place of meeting to the South Lawrence passenger station.

A chapel, 20x30 feet in size, was erected on South Broadway in the summer of 1859, and dedicated in September of that year. Owing to the steady growth of the school, in 1861 an addition of 10 feet was made to the building, and in June, 1864, work was commenced on a newer and larger chapel, the present one, which was dedicated Dec. 25, 1864, its cost being about $6,500, of which the residents of South Lawrence contributed $1,000; the people on the north side of the river, $1,000; William C. Chapin, $500, and the remaining $4,000 was given by Mr. George A. Fuller, who had been superintendent of the Sunday school from 1857 until the fall of 1864, when he resigned and Deacon J. L. Barnes chosen his successor, the latter serving three years. George Hardy was chosen superintendent Oct. 27, 1867.

On the first Sunday in October, 1865, preaching was commenced by Prof. Edward A. Park of the Andover Theological Seminary, who continued to supply the pulpit until the October following the organization of the church, and a larger part of the time occupied the desk himself. May 13, 1868, the church was formed, to be called the South Congregational church. The first pastor to occupy the pulpit after Prof. Park retired was Rev. James Gregory Doherty, from October, 17, 1868, to October, 18, 1869. Rev. Leonard Z. Ferris was pastor from March, 20, 1870, until March 25, 1873, when his successor was Rev. Clark Carter, who occupied the desk until July 1, 1888. Rev. Edward Abbott Chase, supplied the pulpit from Oct. 1, 1888, to Nov. 21, 1889, at which time he was installed as pastor, and has since been in charge of the parish.

In July, 1881, the church united with the Central church and society.

Pastors—Rev. William F. Snow, from Sept. 13, 1866, until his death January 11, 1871; Rev. Theodore T. Munger, from June 14, 1871, to January 9, 1875; Rev. John H. Barrows, from March 14, 1879, to September 12, 1880; Rev. Edward P. Hooker, from January 12, 1881, to June, 1881.

UNITED CONGREGATIONAL.

Organized in 1871 as a Primitive Methodist church in Franklin hall. The present edifice was built and occupied in 1872. In 1877, the name of the church was changed from the Primitive Methodist to the Tower Hill Congregational, and since March 2, 1886, has been known as the United Congregational church.

Pastors—Revs. W. J. Hartshorn, from 1881 to 1883; J. W. Savage, from 1883 to 1885; John T. Whalley, from 1885 to 1888; F. H. Boynton, from 1889 to Dec., 1892. The present pastors (1893) are F. L. Whipple and E. S. Ellis.

The first services were held in the Y. M. C. A. room of this city, and later in the rooms at the corner of Broadway and Methuen street. Subsequently the saloon and bowling alley at the corner of Camden and Centre streets was leased, where services were held until 1890, when a church building was erected which was dedicated in Jan., 1892.

Two months later, the Methodists moved across the street in the attic of an unfinished building which was called "Concert Hall." The church building at the corner of Haverhill and Hampshire streets, was dedicated Feb. 20, 1848, the sermon being preached by Bishop Janes. The church edifice was remodelled and enlarged in 1860.

This society is the outgrowth of a Mission Sunday school, organized by members of the Haverhill Street church in what was then known as the "Union school house," on Newbury street, below Essex. The first session of this Sunday school was held April 24, 1853. The church organization was effected June, 1853. Services were held in Pantheon hall, corner of Newbury and Common streets. until October, 1854, and afterwards in the City Hall until Jan. 14, 1855, when the vestry of the new church building at the corner of Garden and Newbury streets was first occupied. May 17, 1857, the audience room of the church was opened for services.

PARKER STREET METHODIST.

This church and society sprang into existence through the efforts of Rev. D. C. Knowles, who in 1869 formed a bible class and Sunday school in South Lawrence. The Parker Street Methodist society was organized Sept. 16, 1870, and within a few months afterwards a one-story wooden building, 22x40 feet, was erected on Blanchard street. The corner stone of the church at the corner of Parker and Abbott streets was laid July 8, 1873, and the new house of worship dedicated in 1875.

While maintaining services in the small structure on Blanchard street, the desk was supplied by Rev. Messrs. Tilton of Derry, N. H., Keyes of Woburn, and Sargent of Malden. The first settled pastor was Rev. W. J. Parkinson, in 1873. His successors have been Revs. Garrett Beekman, Allen J. Hail, Converse L. McCurdy, T. J. Abbott, William A. Braman, J. Hambleton, C. M. Melden, Lewis P. Cushman, Charles H. Hannaford and Henry Matthews, the latter being pastor in 1893.

 GERMAN METHODIST.

In 1871, the Germans of Lawrence made an unsuccessful effort to unite the Catholic and Protestant element of their countrymen in a movement to establish a church in which services could be held in their own language, also a school for teaching their children in the elementary branches in the German dialect, but before anything definite was agreed upon there arose a dissention among the conflicting elements which resulted in the abandonment of the project. A meeting of the German Protestants was held in the City Hall basement, in May, 1872, at which it was unanimously voted to establish the church and school, and to rent the Eliot chapel in which to hold religious exercises. Rev. L. B. Schwartz of Boston conducted the first service in the chapel, June 23, 1872. The German Church and School society was incorporated June 5, 1873. The church building on East Haverhill street was dedicated Dec. 12, 1875, where regular meetings were held until April, 1878, when it was voted to dispense with the services of preachers sent by the Methodist conference. The Methodist element thereupon withdrew, organized a separate society, and erected a church on Vine street, which was dedicated Dec. 11, 1881. August Wallon, a student, was the second pastor, and was succeeded by Revs. Adlin Wolff, Philip Stahl and Henry H. Heck.

ST. MARK'S METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

A Mission Sunday School was organized at the corner of Bodwell and Margin streets, March 17, 1878. The following year, (Dec., 1879), the Bodwell Street M. E. church was organized in the same building, but the name was changed to St. Mark's M. E. Church in 1890, about the time the new church edifice at the corner of Essex and Margin streets was dedicated, (May 22, 1890.)

Pastors—Revs. W. H. Stewart, from Dec., 1879, to April, 1880; William Ramsden, from 1880 to 1883; E. P. F. Dearborn, from 1883 to 1884; W. E. Bartlett from 1884 to 1887; William McNally, from 1887 to 1888; Mellon Howard from 1888 to 1889; William Ramsden, from 1889 to 1891; Thomas Whiteside, from 1891 to date, (Dec., 1893.)

GRACE EPISCOPAL.

Commencing, Oct. 11, 1846, services were held in the wooden chapel at the corner of Common and Jackson streets by Rev. George Packard. The chapel was completed and consecrated November 29, 1846. May 5, 1852, the stone church edifice was consecrated by Bishop Eastburn. Rev. George Packard died Nov. 20, 1876, and Rev. William Lawrence chosen rector of the parish.

Rev. William Lawrence, (now Bishop Lawrence,) resigned December 1, 1883, and was succeeded by Rev. Augustine H. Amory, the present rector. The brick chapel on Garden street was built in 1887.

ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL.

This church was legally organized May 14, 1866, at a special meeting, but from 1864 to May 1866, meetings were held in the Essex engine house on Morton street. In 1866, the wooden chapel on Morton street was completed, and in 1870 was removed to its present site on Bradford street. The rectory was built and occupied in February, 1879.

The parish had no settled rector previous to May 14, 1866, but the services were conducted by students from the Andover Theological School and a Rev. Mr. Skeele had officiated at some of the services. After the legal organization was effected, Rev. A. V. G. Allen became its first settled rector until Dec. 30, 1867. The other rectors have been, Revs. Charles Clark Harris, from March 8, 1868, to March 21, 1869; James Hatrick Lee, from March, 1869, to May 28, 1873; Belno A. Brown, from Oct. 8, 1873, to Jan. 18, 1878; William G. Wells, from Jan. 28, 1878, to Oct. 1884; J. S. Kent, to Oct. 29, 1884, to July 16, 1888; Henry Wood, from Jan. 1, 1889, to date.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

The First Universalist Society was organized Nov. 15, 1847, and the first meetings held in the school house on the southerly side of Haverhill street near where the Battery building now stands. Meetings were afterwards held in Bridgman hall, on Oak street, and later in Lawrence hall, (since known as Music hall,) on Common street. In 1852 a church edifice was erected on Haverhill street. In 1865 the building was remodelled and enlarged, also a spire was added. A church was organized in connection with the society in 1859.

Pastors—Revs. George Henry Clark, from Nov. 14, 1847, to June 15 1851; Henry Jewell, from Oct., 1851, to 1852; James Riley Johnson, from June 1, 1852, to June 24, 1855; Jedediah Jenkins Brayton, from Oct. 24, 1855, to August, 1858; Martin Jencks Steere, from Jan. 3, 1859, to July 1, 1860; George Sumner Weaver, from Oct., 1860, to March 31, 1873; George William Perry, from June 5, 1873, to Oct. 1, 1877; Alphonso Everett White from July 1, 1878, to July 1, 1886; William Erastus Gibbs, from Oct. 1, 1886 to the present time, (Nov., 1893.)

FIRST BAPTIST.

Early in the spring of 1847 a movement was made looking to the formation of a Baptist society in the then young town of Lawrence, and services irregularly held in private homes or school houses until June, 1847, when a permanent church organization was effected, the new body taking the name of the Amesbury Street Baptist Church. Measures were at once taken to provide a meeting house, and a temporary building erected on a lot in rear of its present site, but this structure soon found to be inadequate to accommodate the increasing congregations, and the Essex Company gave the lot of land at the corner of Haverhill and Amesbury streets, when the society commenced the work of building the church they now occupy, which was completed and dedicated Oct. 20, 1850. Its cost was about $5,000.

Pastors—Rev. J. G. Richardson, from Dec. 5, 1847, to July, 1852; Rev. A. W. Sawyer, from Oct., 1852, to Jan., 1855; Rev. Frank Remington, from June, 1856, to Aug., 1859; Rev. Henry F. UNITARIAN CHURCH.

This society was organized Aug. 30, 1847. The first meetings were held in the Odd Fellows' hall on Hampshire street, and later in a chapel which had been built for that purpose. In May, 1850, the wooden church building at the corner of Jackson and Haverhill streets was dedicated, the tower and and spire of which was destroyed by fire Aug. 12, 1859, and has not been replaced. The society, though not large in numbers, has been comprised to a considerable extent of the wealthy and prominent citizens of this city.

Pastors—Rev. Henry F. Harrington, from March 1, 1848, to 1854; Rev. William L. Jenkins, from 1855 to 1865; Rev. James H. Wiggin, 1866; Rev. James B. Moore from 1867 to 1872; Rev. Charles A. Hayden, from 1873 to 1876; Rev. Edmund R. Sanborn, from 1877 to 1886; Rev. Edwin C. Abbott, from 1887 to 1890; Rev. George H. Young, from 1891 to —.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

In June, 1854, Rev. A. McWilliams of Boston organized a Presbyterian society in Lawrence, with 47 members. The small wooden church which formerly stood on the site of Ford Brothers' store, corner of Oak and Short streets, was built in 1856, where services were held occasionally until 1870, when the church edifice on Concord street was built, and since enlarged.

Pastors—Rev. James Dinsmore from 1859 to 1862; Rev. John Hogg from 1867 to 1875; Rev. John A. Burns, from 1876 to 1884; Rev. Robert A. McArael, D. D., from 1887 to Nov., 1893, when he was granted a prolonged vacation at his own request.

SECOND ADVENT.

This church was organized in Nov., 1870, although as early as June, 1858 meetings were occasionally held in this city, there being no settled pastor until about 1886. Commencing in 1865, the Adventists worshipped in a chapel on Common street, west of Hampshire, and later erected a chapel on Concord street, which was dedicated Dec. 16, 1866, and where services are regularly held.

FIRST FREE BAPTIST.

The First Free Baptist church was organized Jan. 17, 1847. The church worshipped in a small chapel at the corner of Haverhill and White streets. The Haverhill street property was sold in 1857; the building was cut in two and made into two dwelling houses. The present church building, at the corner of Common and Pemberton streets, was dedicated April 21, 1857, and is now valued at $22,000.

Pastors: Rev. J. E. Davis, from Jan. 17, 1847, to Oct. 1, 1849; Rev. Jonathan Woodman, from Oct. 1, 1849, to Oct., 1852; Rev. G. P. Ramsay, from Nov., 1852, to Nov., 1855; Rev. A. D. Williams, from Dec., 1855, to July, 1857; Rev. E. M. Tappan, from Sept., 1857, to Dec. 12, 1860; Rev. J. Burnham Davis, from May, 1861, to Jan. 23, 1866; Rev. E. G. Chaddock, from June, 1866, to 1869; Rev. J. A. Lowell, from Oct., 1870, to April, 1872; Rev. Alphonso L. Houghton, from Sept. 4, 1872, to Oct. 2, 1880; Rev. C. A. Bickford, from Oct., 1880, to Oct., 1881; Rev. Thomas H. Stacy, from March, 1882, to Sept., 1886; Rev. D. McDermid, from Nov., 1886, to Nov., 1887; Rev. Thomas Spooner, from 1888 to the present time, (Nov., 1893.)

SECOND BAPTIST.

In 1860 the need of a second Baptist church was recognized. The growing city gave promise that another church would be well supported, and the overtaxed audience room of the First church emphasized the demand. Accordingly, with perfect unanimity of feeling, the First church resolved to plant a new church. On the 13th of August, 1860, a company of the First Baptist church met to consider the question of a new organization, and Thursday, Sept. 6, a committee reported that the letters had been granted, and the pastor of the First church, with members were present to assist in the new organization. Seventy-one members, with letters from the First church formed the organization of the Second Baptist church. The new church met for worship in the City Hall. Jan. 21, 1861, the society voted to purchase the Chapel of the Christian Disciples, for $1,100. Rev. Frank Remington was the first settled pastor, who served the church faithfully for eighteen months. In the spring of 1864 the present building site was purchased, the chapel moved and put in order, at an expense of $10,000. In 1874 the old chapel was torn down and the present building was erected at a cost of about $28,000.

Besides Rev. Frank Remington, the other pastors have been: Rev. C. F. Tolman, from Sept., 1862, to 1864; Rev. Henry A. Cooke, from Feb., 1865, to Sept., 1869; Rev. A. R. Medbury, from Oct., 1869, to April, 1870; Rev. L. L. Wood, from Sept. 28, 1870, to 1873; Rev. Geo. W. Gile, from July, 1873 to 1879; Rev. R. B. Moody, from Jan., 1880, to Aug., 1883; Rev. F. M. Gardner, from April, 1884, to Dec., 1891; Rev. E. P. Tuller, from June, 1892, to the present time, (Nov., 1893.)

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

In April, 1846, Rev. Charles Pfrench first visited Lawrence, and began to hold religious services in the houses occupied by Irish Catholic people. A few months later he succeeded in causing a wooden chapel to be built at the corner of Chestnut and White streets in which a school was established and religious services held, the school being taught by Messrs. O'Connell and Bresnahan. Father Pfrench died in January, 1852. In the month of November, 1848, Rev. James O'Donnell celebrated mass and preached his first sermon in Lawrence in Merrimack hall, at the corner of Jackson and Common streets, and about that time work was commenced on the small, wooden structure which until 1880 was on the corner of Haverhill and White streets. The stone church on Haverhill street, now used for school purposes, was completed in 1853, it being but one-half the size of the present structure, which was enlarged in 1860, and re-dedicated by Bishop Fitzpatrick. The corner stone of the new St. Mary's church, at the corner of Hampshire and Haverhill streets, was laid Aug. 19, 1866, by Archbishop Williams, and the church edifice dedicated Sept. 3, 1871. The parochial residence on Haverhill street was completed Oct. 5, 1873. The chime of bells in St. Mary's church tower were placed in position Dec. 12, 1884, and consecrated the following day. June 5, 1880, the clergy of St. Mary's church celebrated the first mass in the Lawrence house of correction. Rev. John P. Gilmore celebrated the first mass service in Methuen, Dec. 8, 1876. The old stone church on Haverhill street, which had been fitted up for school and hall uses, was reopened Oct. 12, 1879, and few months later occupied for school purposes. A convent was built at the corner of Haverhill and Hampshire streets, in 1893.

Rev. James O'Donnell died April 7, 1861, aged 54 years. His body was buried in the church yard where it remained until April 4, 1872, when it was removed to St. Mary's cemetery. The clergymen who have since been in charge of St. Mary's church have been Rev. Ambrose Mullen, Rev. Louis M. Edge, Rev. T. Galberry, Rev. John P. Gilmore and Rev. J. T. O'Reilly.

The brick structure known as the Church of the Immaculate Conception, was dedicated in November, 1855, and in May, 1861, the bell in its tower was rung for the first time. Feb. 9, 1868, the Orphan Asylum adjoining the church was dedicated. Rev. Father J. H. D. Taaffe, who for eighteen years was pastor of this church, died Nov. 29, 1868, aged 68 years. His successors have been Rev. M. J. L. Doherty, Rev. C. T. McGrath, Rev. William Orr, and since 1875 services have been conducted by the Augustinian clergymen from St. Mary's church.

During Father Orr's pastorate, St. Patrick's church in South Lawrence was built, and dedicated March, 17, 1870. For several years services were held in the basement, but recently the upper portion of the building has been finished and towers placed over the roof. St. Laurence's church, at the corner of Union and Essex streets, was dedicated by Archbishop Williams, in July, 1875.

GERMAN CATHOLIC.

This society, known as the Church of the Assumption of Mary, was organized in 1887, and erected the church edifice near the corner of Lawrence and Park streets. The first pastor was Rev. Michael S. Sagg. who, in 1892, was succeeded by Rev. B. B. Schmickler, O. S. A:

FRENCH CATHOLIC.

The French Catholics began agitating the subject of gathering a church in 1871, holding meetings first in Essex hall, and soon afterwards in a small building purchased on Lowell street. Work was commenced in building St. Anne's church in 1872, which was not finished until 1875, when under the pastorate of Rev. Oliver Boucher, it was sufficiently completed to be used for divine services. A parochial school was established in 1880, and which is now maintained in the brick building erected in 1892, on Haverhill street. The present pastor (1893) is Rev. J. M. Portal.

PRIMITIVE METHODIST. (PROSPECT HILL.)

This church was first started in August, 1892, by Rev. J. Mason, in the mission chapel, at the corner of Howard and Allston streets. The conference of 1893, in May, took the mission in charge, and appointed Rev. J. H. Trenberth as its pastor. On account of the many failures made by other churches in efforts to keep a chapel open, the work of the Primitive Methodists has necessarily been slow, but it is increasing slowly but surely.

GERMAN PRESBYTERIAN.

The church building on East Haverhill street was dedicated Dec. 12, 1875. The first pastor was Rev. P. F. Hoffman, who remained until Jan. 1, 1878, when he was succeeded by Rev. A. Herman Hager, who occupied the pulpit about five years. Rev. Frederick O. Zeisch was installed pastor of the church in Oct., 1883, and resigned in 1885, and was succeeded by Rev. Frederick C. Saure. The pastor in 1893 is Rev. George C. Mueller.

THE LAWRENCE ODD FELLOWS HALL ASSOCIATION was organized in 1874, with the object of providing a suitable home for the several local societies of Odd Fellowship. The capital stock of $75,000, divided into shares of $25 each, was soon subscribed for, and in April, 1874, the association was formed and its first officers elected. The lot of land at the south-east corner of Essex and Lawrence streets was purchased, and work commenced on the handsome building on the site early in the following July. The structure was completed in October, 1875, and the two upper stories occupied by the lodges in that month. The original estimate of the cost of the building was $75,000, but nearly $20,000 more were required to fit up the lodge and encampment rooms. The building committee were C. B. Smith, D. S. Hall and W. F. Buxton. The first meeting in the subordinate lodge hall was held Oct. 14, when it was formally dedicated. It was the original intention to fit up the second story for office purposes, but the offer of the city to lease it a term of years for the public library was accepted and the plans changed. The Home Club have occupied the apartments on the second floor since the removal of the library to Haverhill street, in 1891. The ground floor was originally fitted up for four stores, which have since been converted into one, and now (1893) occupied by L. C. Moore & Co.

The first board of directors were James S. Hutchinson, Dyer S. Hall, C. Belden Smith, William F. Buxton, Joseph S. Bonney, A. H. Salisbury and John Sager. Mr. Hutchinson was its first president, and after his death, was succeeded by John Sager, the present incumbent. The treasurers have been Albert D. Swan and Dyer S. Hall.

THE LADIES' UNION CHARITABLE SOCIETY was organized in 1875, and since that time has had charge of the General Hospital on Methuen street, for the care of acute cases of sickness and accidents; the Day Nursery for day care of small children, and a training school for nurses. Its present officers are, Miss A. F. Carter, president; Mrs. C. U. Dunning and Mrs. G. W. Sargent, first vice-presidents; Mrs. W. F. Sherman, secretary; Miss C. F. Prescott, assistant secretary, and Miss Helen Chamberlin, treasurer.

B. P. O. ELKS.

LAWRENCE LODGE, No. 65, B. P. O. ELKS, was one of the first of eastern lodges to be instituted when the boom in "Elkdom" commenced in 1887. The first efforts for its establishment were made by Brother Fred E. Atteaux, at that time exalted ruler of Boston lodge, No. 10 assisted by brethren in Boston and Providence. Much of the credit for labor in working up the charter is due to Brother Winfield G. Merrill, who at that time was a member of No. 14. The only other resident members of the order in Lawrence at that time were Joseph Butterworth and Frank W. Putney. The first new member to sign the charter list of 45 members was Hon. A. B. Bruce, who was mayor of Lawrence at the time. The lodge was instituted May 15, 1887, in Odd Fellows hall, which was a memorable occasion. It has since gained a strong foothold among the many worthy organizations in Lawrence, and has among its members are many leading citizens of Lawrence. During its existence it has spent nearly $1000 in charity, and assisted in the formation of many lodges in the vicinity of Boston. The meetings are held in Pythian hall, 180 Essex street, on Wednesday evenings. The lodge has obtained a charter, and secured the lot of land at the corner of Essex and Hampshire streets, with the view of erecting a building thereon in the near future.

The exalted rulers have been: 1887, Hon. Alexander B. Bruce; 1888-'89, C. Be'den Smith; 1889-'90, Phineas B. Robinson; 1890-'91, Winfield G. Merrill; 1892-'93, Everett T. Collins. The secretaries have been Richard J. Shea from 1887 to 1890, and John T. Brown from 1890 to the present time.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

In 1866, a large number of the gallant soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the rebellion, and were later residents of Lawrence, organized a branch of the Army and Navy Union, which flourished several months when it became affiliated with the Grand Army of the Republic, and since Dec. 10, 1867, has been known as NEEDHAM POST, No. 39, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R. It was named after Corporal Sumner Henry Needham, of Co. I, of the "Old Sixth" Massachusetts regiment, who was killed in Baltimore, Md., April 19, 1861, being one of the first martyrs of the rebellion. Since the Post was organized the names of nearly 700 veteran soldiers and sailors have been placed on its membership roll, of which more than 300 have died or removed from Lawrence. At the present time, (1893) there are 403 members in good standing, and during the quarter century of its existence has disbursed many thousands of dollars in relieving the wants of their needy and unfortunate comrades, their widows, orphans or persons depending upon them for support, thereby aiding to prevent such from becoming subjects for public charity. Its meetings are held Wednesday evenings in Needham hall, 239 Essex street. Its commanders have been:

1867. George S. Merrill.	1881. Andrew C. Stone.
1868. George S. Merrill.	1882. John F. Hogan. i

NEEDHAM RELIEF CORPS, No. 55, received its charter Oct. 7, 1885, on the application of 70 ladies, whose husbands, brothers or fathers were members of the Grand Army of the Republic. Since its organization it has not only increased its membership, but in a quiet way accomplished a vast amount of self-sacrificing work among the homes of soldiers' widows and children, which for reasons in many cases could be better attended by women than men. The local corps has a membership of 180, and its meetings are held in Needham hall on the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

L. D. SARGENT CAMP, No. 21, SONS OF VETERANS, was instituted Feb. 4, 1885, having 21 charter members. As its membership has not increased to that extent as was anticipated at the start, it has prospered since that time and its meetings held on the first and third Thursdays in Needham hall.

LAWRENCE BOARD OF TRADE.

During the fall and winter months of 1887, several public-spirited and prominent business men of Lawrence became interested in a scheme which was devised looking towards the most effective means to secure a union of the energies, influences and action of citizens in matters pertaining the public welfare of the citizens of Lawrence. to encourage all legitimate enterprises, and to provide for the frequent meeting and conference of business men and active citizens. This resulted in the organization of the Lawrence Board of Trade, Feb. 1, 1888, when the following officers were chosen: President, James H. Eaton; vice-presidents, Hon. Alvin E. Mack, William F. Sherman, Alfred A. Lamprey; secretary, Charles A. DeCoursey; treasurer, Arthur W. Dyer; directors, Hon. Robert H. Tewksbury, Henry A. Buell, Walter E. Parker, Thomas A. Hutchins, William Oswald, John P. Sweeney, Horace A. Wadsworth, Patrick Murphy and Franklin Butler. During the first two years of its existence but little was accomplished except devising plans and discussing measures presented at its regular monthly meetings the results of which were beneficial in later years. It was mainly through the action of the Board that Lawrence became a railroad billing point, which was of great benefit to manufacturers and business men. It was instrumental, through the exertions of President Butler, in causing the large wool scouring establishment, and by the energy of President Bruce, caused a shoe manufactory to locate in South Lawrence, the widening of Broadway, at the railroad crossing, and set the ball in motion towards securing other measures looking to the further prosperity of the city, and welfare of the public. President J. K. Norwood, during his term of office, took an active interest in devising a feasible plan to make the Merrimack river navigable from Haverhill to Lawrence, causing surveys to be made and plans prepared with an estimated cost of work, besides, at his personal expense, he visited Washington, where he urged the government officials to use their influence in aiding to carry out the project. He also vigorously advocated the plan for the extension of Winter street, and secured the names of persons representing ninety per cent. of taxable property of the city to a petition for the proposed extension of that street.

The presidents of the Board have been: James H. Eaton, 1888; William F. Sherman, 1889; Franklin Butler, 1890; John K. Norwood, 1891-'92; Hon. Alexander B. Bruce, 1893. Charles A. DeCoursey, George H. Eaton, James E. Simpson, George W. Hall and Daniel F. Dolan have served as secretary.

The present membership of the Board is about 160. Its regular meetings are held on the second Wednesday evening of each month at No. 246 Essex street, and the annual meeting in January.

VOLUNTEER VETERAN FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Pursuant to a call for Veteran Firemen of Lawrence to meet in the Board of Trade rooms on the evening of April 16, 1890, a meeting was held and a temporary organization effected by the choice of Capt. Benjamin F. Chadbourne as chairman, and Charles G. Merrill, secretary. After several of those present expressed themselves in favor of forming an association a committee of five was chosen to draw up a constitution and by-laws and present them at a subsequent meeting. The first regular meeting of the association was held in the City Hall basement, May 15, when the organization was perfected, and the following officers chosen: John K. Norwood, president; Col. Melvin Beal, vice-president; Charles S. Stackpole, secretary; Abiel Morrison, treasurer; Hon. John R. Rollins, historian; Charles E. Goss, Albert R. Brewster, David Beatty, William W. Colby and Thomas Shannahan, trustees. The constitution provides that any person of good character who performed fire duty in Lawrence, Methuen, North Andover and Andover, prior to the introduction of steam fire engines, either as an active, honorary, contributing member, is eligible to membership by paying one dollar annual dues, and also others may be elected honorary members by paying a certain sum each year. The regular meetings of the Association have since been held in the hall of the Old Battery building on Haverhill street, on the first Monday evenings in January, April, July and October, the annual election of officers occurring at the July meeting.

Mainly through the efforts of President Norwood, a hand engine was purchased for the Association, which was renovated and ornamented at a considerable expense, so that it compares favorably with the handsome and costly machines owned by similar organizations in other cities. This is kept in readiness to promptly respond to any call to perform fire duty should its services be needed. Since the Association was formed it has been presented with an elegant silk banner, also a number of relics, including old-time fire scenes, hose pipes, buckets, trumpets, hats, lanterns and implements used in the fire service of Lawrence during its early days. The Association participated in the tournaments in Lowell and Boston in 1891-'92.

Starting in 1890, with 78 active members, the number has increased to 263, and the honorary list bears 71 names on the roll. President Norwood and Vice-President Beal have held those offices from the time the Association was formed. The other present officers are George M. Colby, secretary; John T. Howard, treasurer, and William R. Pedrick, historian.

NATIONAL AND SAVINGS BANKS.

Previous to 1864, there were but two banking institutions in Lawrence, (the Bay State and Pemberton,) and one savings bank. The two former were conducted under the State bank laws until the era of the national banking system, and, with the others in the United States, became national banks, and have since continued as such until 1893, when the Pemberton surrendered its charter, and went into voluntary liquidation.

THE BAY STATE BANK was incorporated Feb. 10, 1847, its original capital being $200,000, which was later increased to $500,000, and subsequently reduced to $375,000, the par value of its shares being $75 each. The banking rooms have been at the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets since it commenced business. Its presidents have been: Hon. Charles S. Storow, from 1847 to 1867; Hon. George L. Davis, from 1867 to 1892, and Joseph Shattuck from 1892 to the present time. The first cashier was Nathaniel White, who died in 1866, and was succeeded by Charles A. Colby. Mr. Samuel White was cashier from 1884 to 1893, and on his retirement, Justin E. Varney was chosen as his successor.

THE PEMBERTON BANK was incorporated in 1854, with a capital stock of $100,000, which was afterwards increased to $150,000. During its existence the bank was located at the corner of Essex and Pemberton streets, a period of 38 years. Levi Sprague was its president until 1892, when he was succeeded by William S. Jewett. The cashiers have been Samuel C. Woodward, William H. Jaquith, James M. Coburn, John A. Perkins and Fred L. Leighton.

THE PACIFIC NATIONAL BANK was organized in January, 1877, its capital stock being $150,000, which, in 1883, was increased to $150,000. Dr. James H. Kidder and William H. Jaquith have served as president and cashier respectively since the bank commenced business. The banking rooms are at the corner of Essex and Appleton streets, in Saunders block.

THE ARLINGTON NATIONAL BANK was incorporated May 6, 1890, with a capital of $100,000. For several months the bank was located at 261 Essex street, and in 1892 was removed to the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets. The first president was W. S. Jewett, who was succeeded in 1892 by William S. Knox. Albert E. Butler has been its cashier since the bank commenced business.

THE LAWRENCE NATIONAL BANK was organized in February, 1872, and commenced business in Brechin block with a capital of $300,000, in shares of $100 each. Dr. Alfred J. French was its president during the first six years of its existence, and was succeeded by A. W. Stearns, who held that office from 1878 to 1890, when William P. Clark was chosen president, which office he has since held. Prescott G. Pillsbury was cashier until July, 1879, when Hon. John R. Rollins succeeded him, serving in that capacity eight years, and since 1887 Henry L. Sherman has been its cashier.

THE MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK was incorporated in 1889, with a capital of $100,000. James R. Simpson was chosen president, and Denman Blanchard, cashier, and business was commenced at 240 Essex street in the fall of that year. The directors purchased the land and erected the imposing and substantial building, numbered 264 Essex street, which was completed and opened for business in Dec., 1890. The banking apartments are large elegantly fitted, with special accommodations for the use of its patrons. Safety deposit boxes for the storage of valuables and silverware, inside the fire and burglar proof vaults, are provided, and for rental to those who desire to use them. Mr. Blanchard was cashier until Oct. 1, 1891, when he was succeeded by John A. Perkins, formerly cashier of the National Pemberton bank. Mr. Simpson has been its president since the bank commenced business.

THE ESSEX SAVINGS BANK was incorporated September, 1847, and for a long period its business was managed by the president and cashier of the Bay State bank in their rooms. In 1865, James H. Eaton was appointed assistant treasurer, and became treasurer in 1866. George D. Cabot succeeded Mr. Storrow as president, and after serving in that capacity about 24 years, resigned, and Joseph Shattuck chosen to fill that office, which he had since held. During the twenty-eight years that Mr. Eaton's management of bank's affairs its deposits have increased reaching the amount of $7,000,000, and has never omitted paying regular dividends. In 1878 the trustees built the building on the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets, a portion of which is devoted to the use of the bank.

THE LAWRENCE SAVINGS BANK was organized in 1868. Hon. Milton Bonney was president until October, 1883, when he died, and was succeeded by Hezekiah Plummer, who still holds that office. William R. Spalding served as treasurer until he died, in 1891, and was succeeded by William W. Spalding, the present incumbent. Prior to 1892, the banking rooms were in the post-office building, and since that year in its building at the corner of Essex and Pemberton streets.

THE BROADWAY SAVINGS BANK commenced business in 1872 in Brechin block, corner of Essex street and Broadway.

MINOR INDUSTRIAL ESTABLISHMENTS.

THE BUTLER FILE COMPANY was organized by James and Frederick Butler in 1844, and introduced in Lawrence ten years later. In 1879, the business was purchased by George M. Murray & Co., and soon afterwards was removed from the Essex Yard to the present location, 632 Essex street, where 12 men are constantly employed in manufacturing hand-cut files and rasps of every variety. About 275 dozen files are produced monthly.

A. B. BRUCE'S BAKERY, 285, 287 and 289 Lowell street, was established in 1860 by the late Jonathan P. Kent. After Mr. Kent's death, his son, the late Charles E. Kent, and Mr. Bruce carried on the business until May, 1892, when the senior partner died, and his interest in the establishment was purchased by the present owner. All kinds of crackers, bread, cakes, and pastry are manufactured, consuming about 300 barrels of flour each week. There are 50 persons employed in this extensive establishment.

BRIGGS & ALLYN MANUFACTURING Co. From a small commencement nearly forty years ago, the original members had the satisfaction of having created for themselves not only a profitable and extensive business, but also have erected an imposing and lasting monument by the recent erection of the extensive and handsome brick manufactory on the corner of Melvin and Winter streets. For nearly thirty years the firm carried on its business in the Essex Yard, in the manufacture of doors, sashes, blinds, mouldings, frames, counters, tables, church and house finish, wood carving, stair building, etc. The business increased to that extent that it became necessary to fit up a large shop on Lowell street, which was used until the completion of their new factory in May, 1893. About 115 workmen are employed. The establishment was incorporated in 1885, the members of the firm being Caleb T. Briggs, Alfred W. Allyn, Joseph H. Safford and Lewis P. Collins. Mr. Allyn died Jan. 10, 1894.

THE LAWRENCE MACHINE Co., at their works on Island street, manufacture centrifugal pumps, steam engines, tools, dynameters, etc., and gear cutting, draughting and pattern work made a specialty. The company was organized in 1888, the superintendent being William Somerville. About 20 skilled workmen are employed there.

MERRIMAC MACHINE SHOP. This private enterprise on Medford street was established by Albert Blood, in 1853, who has been its owner since that time. In this shop are manufactured steam engines, steam fire pumps, dye house machinery, and heavy iron work.

H. K. WEBSTER & Co.'s flour and grain mill is located at 76 Island street, in which operations were first commenced in 1868. From a comparatively small beginning, it has grown to become one of the most flourishing and prosperous private enterprises in Lawrence, and has a capacity of converting into meal about 1000 bushels of corn daily. The firm has large storehouses on West street, and also deal in hay, mill feed, plaster, seeds, etc.

STEDMAN & SMITH, at the Union mills on the South canal, commenced business in 1885 as worsted machinists, in which they have been successful in securing a large share of patronage from corporations and manufacturers throughout New England. Nearly every description of machine mill work is made and repaired at this mill, wherein 20 machinists are employed.

BURNHAM & PAGE, BELT MANUFACTURERS. In 1885, Mr. E. E. Burnham started in the roll-covering business and carried it on alone until 1889, when he formed a partnership with Mr. F. G. Page, under the firm name of Burnham & Page. In 1880 they bought out Mr. C. L. Place's belting manufactory, and have since carried on a large and successful business in the large and commodious building, corner of Broadway and Lowell street, where at present they do a general mill supply business.

JOSSelyn's IRON FOUNDRY. This thriving establishment on Allen street was established in 1864, by Messrs. N. E. Baker, Edwin Josselyn & Edward King. Since 1875, Mr. Josselyn has been its proprietor, and as an evidence of its growing and continuous prosperity, the result of the business depression of 1893 was scarcely felt there, wherein the full complement of workmen, (35 in number,) found constant employment. Mr. Josselyn is the local agent for the Fairbairn grate bar.

CITY FLOUR MILL. In 1856, Messrs. Furness & Giles grain dealers on Common street, started a flour mill on the bank of the Spicket river, near foot of Summer street. Davis & Taylor, flour merchants of Boston, became partners in the firm in 1859, and who purchased the interest of the original proprietors in 1872. Davis & Taylor erected the brick mill at the corner of South Broadway and Merrimack street, Mr. Giles being the local agent for nearly 15 years. The manufacture of flour was discontinued there in 1892, but the mills now produce meal, mill feed, etc.

EDWARD McCABE & SONS, boiler makers and bleacher builders, are located in the Essex Yard, near Water street. The senior member of this firm commenced the business in Lawrence in 1865, and which has proved to be prosperous and profitable, as more than two hundred of the McCabe boilers are used in Lawrence and vicinity. They also manufacture bleachers and oil tanks, and employ 20 men.

ROBERT CARRUTHERS, who for many years has carried on an extensive and growing business as a reed manufacturer, purchased the establishment of the Providence Reed and Harness Co., in 1887, and did a flourishing business there until 1889, when he removed his plant and machinery to this city, and commenced operations in the Emmons' harness factory on May street. He remained there four years, when he purchased the substantial brick building previously occupied by the Merrimack Valley Street Railway Co., 556 Common street, and has since carried on busineses there. The new factory embraces 24,000 feet of floor space, and one year ago he established a branch factory on Dutton street, Lowell. JNO. K. NORWOOD,

General Insurance Agent,

No. 6 LAWRENCE STREET, LAWRENCE, MASS.

JOHN KENDALL NORWOOD.

Nearly thirty-five years ago, Mr. JOHN K. NORWOOD came to Lawrence, with the intention of making this city his home. On August 5, 1862, he enlisted as a private in the Ninth Massachusetts Battery, under the command of Capt. Achille DeVechi. The Battery started for Washington, September 6, 1862, and during the fall and winter months was stationed at Camp Barry, Md., Hall's Hill and Fort Ramsey, Va. From April 17, to July 1, 1863, the Battery performed service at Centreville, Fairfax Court House and Middleburg, Va., and distinguished itself at the famous battle of Gettysburg, Pa., in which engagement a score of its officers and men were killed or severely wounded, Mr. Norwood receiving a gun shot wound in his lungs, and at the time it was thought his injury would prove fatal. He remained in a hospital or with his company until Feb. 1, 1864, when he was granted an honorable discharge by reason of wounds received while in the service.

In 1867, his health had so far recovered as to permit of his engaging in a business career, and he opened a fire insurance office at the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets, and until 1869, was agent of only two companies. At the present time he represents the following reliable and leading fire insurance companies, having a combined capital of over $50,000,000: Home, Williamsburgh City, Westchester, Hanover, and Niagara, of New York; Merchants and American of Newark, N. J.; Fire Association, Girard, Reliance, and United Firemen's, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Dorchester and Citizens' (Mutuals), of Boston; Aetna of Hartford, Conn.; Traders and Mechanics Mutual, and Lowell Mutual, of Lowell; North British and Mercantile, and Phoenix Assurance, of England; Caledonian, of Scotland; Providence Washington, of Providence, R. I.; Merrimack Mutual, of Andover; Worcester Mutual, and Merchants and Farmers', of Worcester; Quincy Mutual, of Quincy; Cambridge Mutual, of Cambridgeport; Dedham Mutual, and Norfolk Mutual, of Dedham; and Fitchburg Mutual, of Fitchburg. Also, the Connecticut Mutual Life, Fidelity and Casualty, and Travellers' Accident, of Hartford, Conn.

One of the reasons which has contributed in establishing a successful and constantly increasing business for Mr. Norwood, is owing to the reputation which he has acquired as an honest, conscientious and careful person, in whose advice and judgment concerning insurance matters the public can place the most implicit confidence. Deceit and fraudulent methods find no place about him, either in business or social life, and which has caused his name to be prominently mentioned as a mayoralty candidate, and had it not been for his repeated refusals to be a candidate of any faction or "ring," and also that he wanted no nomination for office if it had to be sought for, or weighed down with promises or pledges to secure the same, he might have been on several occasions a nominee for election as one of city fathers. His broad and business-like views in such matters are appreciated by the voters in general, irregardless of party affiliation, especially the property owners.

Mr. Norwood has served two years as president of the Lawrence Board of Trade, and since the Lawrence Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association was organized, has been its president. He is also a member of Needham Post, No. 39, G. A. R., and several other organizations.

Police and Prison Cyclopædia.

Two editions of a very valuable and interesting work bearing the above title have been compiled by Police Officer GEORGE W. HALE of Lawrence, and issued by the Riverside Press, Cambridge. Both works are highly appreciated by the police authorities and prison officials throughout the civilized world, and received flattering endorsements from the metropolitan newspapers in America and Europe. The first edition, published in 1892, was readily disposed of, and a similar but more comprehensive work was issued in 1893, containing nearly 800 pages, elegantly bound and neatly embellished. The author has devoted much time, labor and expense in collecting statistics relative to police and prison affairs in almost every country of the world, and the work can be considered to be the highest authority on such matters. Among the subjects treated are the duties of officers, definition of crimes, writs and legal terms used in criminal law, jurisdiction of courts, naturalization, citizenship, extradition, etc. Part 2 contains reports from the several prisons in the United States, giving the number of convicts, their crimes, nationality and age. Another chapter is devoted to the police department of the cities of the United States, and the fourth contains an illustrated article regarding the infliction of the death penalty by the means of electricity, and the Bertillon method of measuring prisoners, also police matters in general.
